The Summer Enrichment Experience

The Summer Enrichment Experience (SEE) is an intensive, four-week summer program for incoming Auburn University freshmen. The program will be staffed by mathematics and English faculty, graduate teaching assistants, counselors, and academic advisors.

The aim of the program is to:

- increase students' mathematics and English skills
- expose students earlier to the eight participating schools and colleges
- develop students' study and time management skills
- introduce the students to a network of faculty, staff, and fellow minority students

Eligibility

To be eligible for this program, applicants must:

- have been admitted to Auburn University's main campus for fall 2014
- plan to major in one of the eight colleges and schools sponsoring the program (colleges of Agriculture; Architecture, Design and Construction; Business; Education; Human Sciences; Liberal Arts; and the schools of Forestry and Wildlife Sciences and Nursing)

The Program

Students take two classes designed to prepare them for courses in freshmen calculus and English. Each course has a parallel workshop supplementing the classroom instruction. The classroom teaching is conducted by fulltime faculty members while the workshops are supervised by graduate students. Through these courses and workshops, students will have an opportunity to improve their skills and be ready for freshmen courses in the fall. Students will not receive university credit for these courses. However, each student will receive a written evaluation of his or her performance from the instructors. This information will be used to help students determine which courses they should take in the fall.

The classroom supplies and room and board expenses for each student will be provided. In addition, students will be loaned the course textbooks.

Other Activities

Led by the Office of Diversity and Multicultural Affairs, students will be taught study and time management skills. They will attend seminars and discussions on topics such as career options and choosing and succeeding in their academic programs at Auburn University. Students will also visit businesses and industries in a variety of career fields and go on other cultural field trips.

Use of the computer will be an integral part of the program. Students will be taught how to use the university computer network for communication, course requirements, and accessing the library and other important information such as course schedules, financial aid, etc.

Weekends will be reserved for personal time, study, and group outings.

Application

A complete application consists of the following items:

- Application form
- Written statement of personal goals/rationale for choice of study (500 words or less)

Electronic submissions are accepted.
