AU DNP PROGRAM OUTCOMES

The DNP Program prepares graduates to:

1. Assume leadership roles in systems-based approaches designed to promote quality, safety, and excellence in nursing practice.

2. Integrate clinical scholarship into the translation and dissemination of evidence-based practices that address health disparities and improve population healthcare outcomes.

3. Use intra- and inter-professional best practices to support collaborative, sustainable, and practical change that promotes quality of healthcare across diverse populations and settings.

4. Incorporate scientific, theoretical, and ethical principles into quality healthcare for individuals, families, and populations.

5. Lead efforts in health promotion/disease prevention to improve the health of populations in rural and urban settings within a global market.

6. Provide leadership using emerging and current healthcare technologies to promote best practices in healthcare delivery and organizational systems.

7. Utilize principles of social justice, equality, ethical, and moral decision making in the delivery of advanced practice.

8. Develop innovative advanced practice nursing models to improve the quality of healthcare that are fiscally sound and sustainable.

9. Analyze the social, economic, and policy components of advanced practice nursing that impacts improvement of population health outcomes.