RESOURCES FOR AUBURN RESEARCHERS
Grants.Gov Learning Center

As a faculty member, your experience with Grants.gov has most likely been limited to locating a Request for Proposal (RFP)/Solicitation and/or proposal submission (which recently migrated to the creation of proposals via Workspace). However, Grants.gov has been developing a number of resources for both research administrators and faculty that may be of interest to you.

The Grants Learning Center was created to serve as your gateway to the federal grants world. In addition to Grants.gov's Twitter feed, there are numerous topical areas that provide a focus on grant eligibility, policies, terminology, reporting and direct links to Federal grant-making agencies.

Direct links to Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) such as: What is a grant? How do I apply for a grant? What is Workspace? are easily accessible within the website. The website also provides information via a Community Blog (articles and resources that equip current and prospective members of the federal grant community with information, answers, and tools to make your job easier) and Community Videos (which covers the complete Grants.gov application process, from registering and creating a Grants.gov account to finding funding opportunities and completing an application package).

As a reminder, Auburn University (as an entity) is registered with Grants.gov. However, with the transition to Workspace submissions, faculty must request individual registrations ("Manage Workspace Role"). This registration will be approved by the Office of Sponsored Programs or College-level Designee, as appropriate.

If you have questions regarding Grants.gov, or the resources available, please contact your Contract Administrator in the Office of Sponsored Programs for assistance.
